Sending certified copies

If you are sending a copy of the power of attorney, or a copy of the confirmation of your appointment as receiver or deputy, it must be certified at the end of each page as being a true and complete copy of the original.

Who can certify the copy

The copy of the power of attorney must be certified by one of the following: the donor (if they still have capacity); a solicitor; a notary public or, unless it is a lasting power of attorney, a stockbroker.

The copy of the confirmation of your appointment as receiver or deputy can be certified by any of the following people: a qualified lawyer or accountant; an actuary; a notary public; a director, officer or manager of a regulated financial service business (bank, building society, insurance company, etc); an authorised financial intermediary; a qualified estate agent; a teacher; a medical doctor or dentist; a minister of a recognised religion; a local chemist; a member of the judiciary; a civil servant; a serving police or customs officer; a director of your employing company.

The certifier must not be related to you by birth or marriage, in a personal relationship with you or live at the same address.

How to certify the copy

The certifier must write at the end of each page of the copy:

"I certify that this is a true and complete copy of the original [type of document] belonging to [name]."

Then the certifier must sign and date the copy, print their full name under their signature (affixing any relevant official stamp) and add their occupation, address and daytime phone number. Members of professions should also give their institute membership number, if possible.
